

We are seeking a new Executive Director!

The Central Kootenay Food Policy Council is seeking a new Executive Director. We are looking for an experienced leader, creative fundraiser, and strategic thinker with strong management skills. The position is open to anyone who resides within the Central Kootenay.

As the Executive Director, you will have overall strategic, financial, and operational responsibility for the Council, its programs, and the execution of its mission. Duties include fundraising and grant writing, liaising with Central Kootenay local government, and community outreach. This position requires considerable community engagement and food systems expertise, connecting people and ideas to formulate and resource projects that advance the vision of the Council.

The need for community food security has never been more evident. As the new Executive Director, you will leverage the widespread interest in food systems resilience to develop programs and partnerships that will help contribute to vibrant food systems and food security in the Central Kootenay.

The position is currently funded for 15-20 hours / week at a wage of $40/hr. If desired by the successful applicant, these hours may increase as organizational capacity increases.

The Food Policy Council is committed to fostering diversity within our Council and region. We welcome those who will contribute to diversifying our staff including, but not limited to Indigenous People, People of Colour, visible minorities, persons with disabilities, 2SLGBTQ+, and all genders.
